

Leadership Capability Indicator™

Select, Onboard and Develop for Success

The ExecuSmart Leadership Capability Indicator™ (LCI) represents a true advancement in the area of assessment for selection and development. With the LCI assessment, you gain deep and highly accurate insights into a person's cognitive predispositions that are critical for success in the targeted role: given the team, company culture and corporate strategy.

The LCI draws from a database of over 40 industries enabling you to benchmark your talent against similar organizations. As a result, you can identify the competitive strength and gaps of your talent, and measure the organization "fit" of a person and their potential to grow into larger roles over time. You also gain valuable insights that help to target development and ensure the highest impact of development investment.

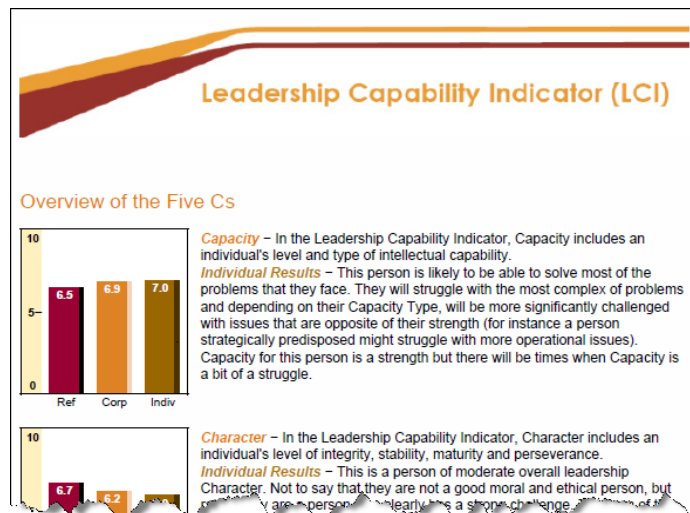

Numerous studies have shown that the typical techniques for selection are highly unreliable – with performance in basic interviews accounting for less than 4% of job performance. Selecting and promoting the right talent at the right time is too important to leave to chance. You need real data to make the right selection, succession, and development decisions.

"The LCI is the most efficient and effective leadership assessment I know. The results in this enterprise speak for themselves. We reduced turnover, improved performance and assured better quality for our patients and better financial performance for our organization."

Rapid Insight for Effective Decision Making

The LCI is a highly efficient tool - it takes about 40 minutes to complete and provides you with objective answers regarding how best to choose and manage your talent. By using the LCI you know a candidate's fit and potential before the day they start, and see a current leader's strengths and development needs at a deep level. The LCI effectively brings greater rigor and insights to the talent equation. You simply won't find a more accurate and time efficient talent solution.

Validated Success

The LCI is used across industries as an accurate predictor in the selection for thousands of critical roles, including C-level, directors, managers, and professional positions. For clients, the results speak for themselves: on-boarding of new talent that bases hiring decisions on the LCI show significant improvement across all key performance dimensions – financial, quality, and people. Across 60 case studies of various corporate divisions, company-owned stores, and franchisees using the LCI, an average increase in profits of over 20 percent was realized – capturing millions of dollars annually for clients.

The LCI is scientifically validated to provide measures on 22 cognitive indicators proven to be most predictive of leadership success in an organization. This provides you the most accurate insights and predictive fit to measure optimal performance in current roles, as well as potential to meet future needs.
